ELP is held in conjunction with the John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University and the Center for Creative Leadership, and consists of a four-week training curriculum that spans nine months and is implemented in four cities. The learning experience provides training in cross-cultural communication, strategic management, public policy, and leadership skills building. Upon graduation each participant mentors two young Latinas and completes a leadership project in her community. ELP fellows will gather at NHLI's 2010 Executive Leadership Training Conference and Mujer Awards in Miami on November 4-5, a gathering of hundreds of Latina leaders open to the public.
