Washington, DC – With the opening of Ozzie's Corner Italian Restaurant, Forrester Construction Company and VERCO are also celebrating the completion of another successful construction partnership. Forrester was the general contractor for the restaurant build out and subcontracted to VERCO Management Company for initial preparatory renovation work.

The finished space now houses Ozzie's, an American restaurant serving Italian food. Great American Restaurant, the owner, developed the concept and menu for over a year before execution. This new restaurant space recreates the early 1900's neighborhood dinner houses reminiscent of New York's Little Italy. The difference is Ozzie's is big and new. For example, the bar hosts big screens with sports programs but is separated from the dining area by walls of glass.

Forrester's management team of restaurant construction experts was led by Tim Wilson, Charles Cerria and Luis Ortiz. "This is Forrester's second project with Great American Restaurants. We're extremely happy with the finished product and VERCO's contribution to the project" said Charles Cerria, Project Manager.

Antipasta, insalata, panini, carne, pesce and fresh house made pasta are offered, as would be expected. In addition to the Italian items, other entrees include ample plates filled with filet porcini, wood grilled rib eye or waldorf steak salad. This really is an American restaurant serving Italian food in a bright, big and vibrant space themed to take you back to Little Italy long ago. The concept, design, build out and operation promise success for those involved and a rewarding dining experience for its patrons. Ozzie's is located at 11880 Grand Commons Avenue in Fairfax, Virginia. For phone ahead wait list call 571 321 8000.

VERCO is a Washington DC based small business enterprise that was brought in to this project to begin façade changes, saw cut concrete and asphalt for installation of new plumbing lines, remove mechanical equipment and prepare for dock area changes. "Forrester delivered a finished restaurant that is very nice. Couple that with a restaurant where a diverse staff is friendly, professional and turning out first rate American fare with Italian flair. It makes us feel good to have been a part of it all" said Victor Romero, Senior Projects Superintendent. Fairfax Corner, where Ozzie's is located, offers its own rewards. It is a planned suburban community with mixed use development, much like Washington's most vibrant urban neighborhoods, but with lots of parking spaces scattered throughout. A multi-screen theater and town plaza replete with computer programmed water fountains for the kids anchor the neighborhood center.

As one of the Washington Metropolitan area's leading commercial general contractors, Forrester Construction has earned an industry-wide reputation for consistently delivering exceptional construction services on projects ranging from small tenant interiors to national landmarks including the Pentagon and Arlington National Cemetery.
